

Peter C. Foster

Senior Vice President

Network Security & Privacy, Media, Tech Professional and Intellectual Property National Resource
Willis North America

Peter Foster is s Senior Vice President working out of our New York office. He consults with companies across varied industry sectors on emerging risks associated with Network Security & Privacy, Media, Technology, Errors & Omissions and Intellectual Property. Peter focuses on combining insurance and preventative risk management services while helping corporations adequately address media, technology and intellectual property risks.

Prior to his career with Willis, as an underwriter, Peter created one of the first Intellectual Property Infringement policies and worked in the early gestation of the EPLI products. As a broker with Marsh, Peter has enhanced the E&O and Cyber Risk offerings by providing services such as insurance gap analyses, information (data) risk assessments (examining how one addresses confidentiality, integrity and availability of a computer network) and contract reviews (third-party service providers, content providers or authors/freelancers). Peter developed the first Security Breach Notification/Public Relations Expense” cover to a Network Security and Privacy Insurance policy providing a sub-limit to meet the immediate reputation risk following a data breach.

Peter has spoken throughout the US and in Toronto, London, Tokyo, Rotterdam, Johannesburg and Hong Kong and has published articles in Financial Executive Magazine, Business Insurance, The John Liner Review and Public Risk Magazine.

Peter has a BA in English from Assumption College.
