

WILLIS TRAINING

TRAINING IS THE FOUNDATION OF HEALTH AND SAFETY STATUTE, FUNDAMENTAL TO CULTURAL CHANGE AND KEY TO THE SUCCESS OF ANY HEALTH AND SAFETY MANAGEMENT PROGRAMME.

An understanding of health and safety is required by all employees, particularly in supervisory or managerial positions. Willis can provide training to suit all your health and safety requirements from tailored courses to address your specific needs to certificated courses from organisations such as the Institution of Occupational Safety and Health (IOSH) and FÁS.

Willis specialises in writing and delivering courses to suit individual client needs which focus on identified areas for improvement and provide solutions to weaknesses which prevent organisations from achieving their health and safety aims and objectives. Typical tailored courses which have been developed and delivered include:

- Accident Reporting and Investigation.
- Root Cause Analysis.
- Managing Behaviour for Safety Excellence.
- Managing Risk.
- Risk Assessment.
- Strategic Planning for Continuous Improvement.
- Safety in Design
- Design Risk Assessment
- Project Supervisor Implementation
- Chemical Safety.
- Risk Management

Examples of generic courses we offer include but are not restricted to:

- Principles of Manual Handling.
- Environmental Awareness.
- Supervising Health and Safety.
- Managing Safety. (IOSH)
- Directing Safety. (IOSH)
- Managing Safety for Construction Managers (IOSH).
- Safepass (FÁS)
- First Aid

Our experience of working with clients all over the world has demonstrated that effective training which is focused and well delivered can raise awareness, promote ownership and accountability resulting in accident reduction and safer work environments leading to more effective demonstration of health and safety risk management.

Willis can deliver courses both at client premises or our premises to suit your needs.
